Poster, of the medical corps, U. S. A., who arrived to-day to take over the tuberculosis sanatorium in West Haven, had with him five officers and twentysix enlisted men. The buildings will be made ready for two hundred beds.

The institution belongs to the New Haven Hospital, which is under Yale Medical School control. It was opened after $500,000 had been spent on it, the money being from a person whose iden tity has never been made known.

The sanatorium covers forty acros, and on it are nine buildings.
